

International Coach Federation Honors Local Life Coach with Master Certified Coach Credential

Barry Zweibel, president and founder of GottaGettaCoach!, Inc., has been awarded the Master Certified Coach (MCC) credential by the International Coach Federation (ICF). The MCC is the highest, and most prestigious, designation available through the ICF, a globally-recognized, independent, certification body for professional coaches. The ICF has more than 11,000 members in 80 countries, and less than 5% of its membership -- and less than 2% of all coaches worldwide -- have achieved this MCC distinction.

Northbrook, IL (PRWeb) February 7, 2007 -- Barry Zweibel, president and founder of GottaGettaCoach!, Inc., has been awarded the Master Certified Coach (MCC) credential by the International Coach Federation (ICF). The MCC is the highest, and most prestigious, designation available through the ICF, a globally-recognized, independent, certification body for professional coaches. The ICF has more than 11,000 members in 80 countries, and less than 5% of its membership -- and less than 2% of all coaches worldwide -- have achieved this MCC distinction.

To qualify for the MCC, a coach must log 2,500 hours of coaching time; complete 200 hours of coach-specific training; obtain letters of reference from clients and MCC-level coaches who have heard, observed, and can attest to, your coaching acumen; successfully pass a six-hour written exam and two live coaching demonstrations; be mentored by an ICF-certified coach; be a member-in-good standing with the ICF; and agree to abide by the ICF Code of Ethics. A 50-page application is then submitted to the ICF which is reviewed, in detail, by an independent Technical Review Committee, and the ICF Application Review Committee, before a final adjudication is reached.

"Since the very first day of my very first coach training class back in June of 2000, I've been working to become an ICF-certified Master Coach," said Barry Zweibel. "I am thrilled to now be so recognized, but I am even more proud of the countless accomplishments of the hundreds of coaching clients I've had the opportunity to work with through the years. It is their success -- and the continued growth of GottaGettaCoach!, Inc. -- that pleases me the most."

GottaGettaCoach! specializes in providing 1-on-1 executive coaching and leadership consulting to seasoned and newly promoted leaders, and life coaching to individuals wanting to make good things happen sooner for themselves.
